A Los Angeles-based actor and voiceover artist with a passion for bringing both stories and characters to life. Combined with a background in video game production and marketing, two decades of choral singing experience, and years of voice acting training with some of the industry's best, I have the tools, drive, and mentality needed to be a stellar asset for your project. Need a charismatic guy next door, a confident spokesperson, or a wacky supervillain ready to take over the world? You've found the right actor for your next project.
